FATE OF SULTAN IS UNDECIDED

INVESTING FORCES ARE NOW ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF CONSTANTINOPLE

NOTED WRITER IS ARRESTED IN SAN FRANCISCO

(By Associated Press.)
SAN FRANCISCO, April 23.—Boughton Brandenburg, a magazine writer who is charged with selling a letter purporting to have been dictated by the late Grover Cleveland to the New York Times, which it is charged, in reality, was made up from notes of the former president's stenographer and taken without permission, was arrested at a local hotel tonight on a telegraphic warrant from New York charging him with grand larceny. He was arrested in New York on a charge of forgery and grand larceny, but the former was dropped and he was released on $1500 bail on the latter charge, but failed to put in an appearance when the case was called February 1. The police of the entire country have been looking for him since.

IS CONCLUDED

(By Associated Press.)

It was announced when the reading began that every paragraph would be subject to amendment when it was taken up Monday. There was but little debate today.

Young Turks Camped Within Two Miles of Turkish Capital--Sultan Receives
Ovation on Journey to Mosque

(By Associated Press.)
CONSTANTINOPLE, April 23.—While the favored troops in the garrison were giving homage to the sultan today, the investing army advanced and the constitutional forces are now within two and a half miles of the city. Cavalry was sent out to reconnoiter and pickets have been posted on the bridge across the Sweetwaters. A party of fifty American tourists have just arrived, having been turned back by the soldiers. When it was noticed that the investing army was in motion a rumor spread through the city that they were about to enter and that fighting was inevitable. A panic reigned and shopkeepers placed shutters on their windows and fled by the hundreds to the compounds and embassies. The British ambassador was caught in the mob forcing their way to the grounds, but he escaped harm. The gates were closed with great difficulty and it was late in the afternoon before the refugees were calmed and sent home. The outposts of the investors are within two miles of the palace on the unfortified side and remained their tonight. The sultan's fate is still doubtful. He retains a strong hold in the affections of the people which was indicated by the ovations greeted him on the journey from the palace to the White Mosque, where he made his devotions.
The constitutionalists have not guaranteed to the ruler even security to his person. The councils are divided and no decisions as to how they will proceed were reached today. General Mahmoud Schiket, who styles himself as commander-in-chief of the army, is now practically the supreme authority. He issued a proclamation stating that he had dispatched troops to Constantinople to restore a consolidated government under the constitution. He guaranteed pardons to repentant soldiers of the city garrison.

WRANGLING IS MAIN FEATURE IN CALHOUN CASE

(By Associated Press.)
SAN FRANCISCO, April 23.—After two days and a half of the cross-examination of James L. Gallagher, the star witness for the prosecution, he was turned over to Heney today for a redirect examination. Heney at once sought to introduce in evidence a complaint charging Gallagher and others with a conspiracy to seize the district attorney's office and place Ruef in power, as district attorney for the purpose of shielding the grafters. The defense had introduced a portion of Gallagher's answer to this complaint which stated he had not committed any crime. This, the defense maintained, is a direct contradiction, impeaching the veracity of the witness. The complaint was allowed to remain in record after a legal wrangle between the opposing counsel which was at once renewed on the extent of the

PANIC FOLLOWS
VIOLENT QUAKE
IN PORTUGAL

(By Associated Press.)
LISBON, April 23.—A violent earthquake shock which threw the inhabitants into a panic was felt today. A few old walls were cracked and toppled, but none were killed or injured. Fires followed the quake and King Manuel personally directed the work of the firemen, who soon checked the blaze. The house of lords was in session at the time and a panic ensued during which many were thrown to the floor.

Inquiry in the motives of Gallagher in signing the articles which he now declares to be false. The court finally directed Heney to continue on other lines and promised to rule on this point Monday after consulting with authorities. The remainder of the session was unproductive of sensations.

GREAT RECEPTION FOR JAPANESE

Elaborate Preparations Made to Receive the Members of the Visiting Japanese Squadron.

(Associated Press.)
SAN FRANCISCO, April 23.—Elaborate preparations to receive the officers and men of the Japanese training squadron were outlined at a meeting of municipal officers, army and navy men and civic organizations today. It was declared that San Francisco will endeavor to repay the many kindnesses the Japanese accorded Sperry and the men of the Atlantic fleet in their around-the-world cruise. The United Railroads has announced that the Japanese sailors can ride free, and it is expected the ferry companies will take a similar action.
LOS ANGELES, April 23.—When the Japanese squadron arrives at San Pedro next Monday, their first appearance on the Pacific coast, will be recorded a reception worthy of the occasion. A committee has prepared a full program of amusements which will be offered the visitors to choose from. Nagai, the Japanese consul from San Francisco, has arrived to await the coming of the fleet.

ARE SELECTED IN HAINS CASE

(By Associated Press.)
FLUSHING (N. W.), April 23.—Five days of interrogations have resulted in securing but seven men for the jury to try Captain Peter Hains, Jr., charged with the murder of William E. Annis. The court adjourned until Monday. So far 343 talesmen have been examined and a new panel of 150 more were ordered for Monday. According to declarations from both sides the case will be tried without an appeal for a lunacy commission. John McIntyre announced today that he is so convinced of the insanity of his client that he will probably put him on the stand to allow the jurors to judge.

Prowl Around the Camp.

(By Associated Press.)
KAPITI PLAINS, British East Africa, April 23.—Roosevelt and his party have reached their hunting grounds and are prepared to spend their first night under canvas. The big camp has been established near the railroad station. Lions were prowling about the tent last night. The country is green owing to recent rains and every prospect is for good sport. The Roosevelt party disembarked from their special train today and proceeded to camp. There are thirteen tents for the Roosevelt party and the Europeans, with the American flag floating over the expedition's. When the party arrived the 200 native camp followers were lined up to receive them and shouted a salute to Roosevelt. Sir Alfred Pease, who as host to Roosevelt, welcomed the guest. Roosevelt rode the last seventy-nine miles of the trip from Mombasa on the cow-catcher of the engine to get a full view of the scenery.

KENTUCKY'S
GOVERNOR GRANTS
SIX PARDONS

(By Associated Press.)
FRANKFORT (Ky.), April 23.—Governor Willson today granted pardons to former Governor W. S. Taylor and former Secretary of State Charles Finlay. Both are refugees in Indiana and are charged with complicity in the murder of William Goebel in 1900. He also pardoned John Powers, a brother to Caleb Powers, who is believed to be in Honduras, and three others who did not flee the state. Willson reiterated his belief that it was his "sacred duty" to pardon them as he did not believe the murder was a conspiracy. The extradition of Taylor was refused by Indiana. Caleb Powers was pardoned some months ago.

TONOPAH MINING COMPANY'S ANNUAL REPORT

The Company Now Has Over $4,000,000 in the Treasury and Has Distributed $750,000 in Dividends During the Past Fiscal Year.

The annual report of the Tonopah Mining company has been received by the stockholders of the company in this city. The reports show the company to be in excellent condition. The total earnings of the year for both the mining company and the Desert Power and Mill company aggregated $1,751,098.92, while after disbursing $750,000 in dividends there still remains in the treasury $4,728,316.36. The report, somewhat condensed, reads as follows:

To the Stockholders of the Tonopah Mining company of Nevada:

The board of directors submits herewith the following report of operation of your company for the fiscal year ending February 28, 1909, and the condition of your property March 1, 1909.

Excerpts from the report of Mr. W. H. Blackburn, superintendent of mine:

Telephones, connecting with your surface automatic system, were placed on the third, fifth, seventh and twelfth levels of the mine, and have been found very useful.

A number of small additions have been made to our machinery and apparatus to facilitate operations, and everything about the mine has been kept in first class condition.

The installation of a pump was necessary on account of the water encountered at a depth of 1260 feet in sinking the Mizpah shaft. An Aldrich horizontal quintuplex electric pump, of 200 gallons per minute capacity, was installed on the twelfth level of the Mizpah shaft, connected with the surface by an armored cable capable of transmitting 200 horsepower, and a six-inch water column was placed in the shaft to take the discharge from the pump. Below the twelfth level, in sinking the shaft, a sinking pump is used, discharging in a crosscut from the north side of the pump station. Both pumps have been tried and have worked successfully from the start.

The flow of water is so small in quantity that it can be easily handled by the pump. To have bailed would have interfered with hoisting ore, so that economy suggested the installation of the pump, which has a surplus capacity sufficient to take care of at least four times the present flow of water.

During the past year a new vein was discovered on the 500-foot level near the Red Plume shaft. It is the eastern extension of the vein mined by the Tonopah Extension Mining company. It is a strong vein and carries ore of good value, which may be mined for a width of seven feet or more. It has been followed to the east into our property for 150 feet, and it is one of the encouraging prospect of the mine.

A crosscut or drift on the 600-foot level from the Mizpah shaft has encountered a vein under the Buckboard claim, which may be the eastern extension of the Red Plume vein above mentioned. This vein has been drifted in for a distance of 250 feet. It is about seven feet wide on the 600-level, and is on a good-sized body of ore.

These two workings are separated by a distance of several hundred feet. They are apparently approaching each other, and may possibly join and make one continuous ledge.

Through the discovery of these Red Plume and Buckboard veins, together with the ore encountered in the drill hole from the bottom of the Red Plume shaft, the continuity of the ore across this territory seems to be established, and these discoveries may be taken as a reasonable indication of future ore reserves that are as yet undeveloped and not measurable.

During the year, 234,917 wet tons were hoisted from the Mizpah, Shver Top and Red Plume shafts, of which 155,401 dry tons of ore, of an average value of $23.43 per ton, were shipped to the mill at Millers; 7957 dry tons of ore were placed in storage at Millers for emergency use; 13,635 dry tons of low grade ore were placed on the dump, and 50,296 dry tons of waste rock were placed on the dump.

Our mining costs for the year were:

Per ton of ore shipped	$4.606
Per ton of ore and waste hoisted	3.311
Per dry tons of ore shipped, including cost of sinking shaft, diamond drilling and station	4.800
The mining cost per ton of ore shipped is 61.3 cents less on direct costs and 49 cents per ton less on direct and general costs than for the year previous, and will probably be lower during the coming year.

The ore reserves on March 1, 1909, computed by the same method as used in the past, were 367,304 tons. Figuring gold at $19 per ounce, silver at 50 cents per ounce the average value of this ore is $21.11 per ton.

GROUCH AGAINST UNITED STATES

(By Associated Press.)
PARIS, April 23.—Broken in health and leaning on the arm of an attendant, Ciapriano Castro, the former president of Venezuela, who was exiled from that country by the action of the United States government, arrived today. He said: "I am a victim of the United States. The day will come when the powers will realize their mistake. They failed to understand the significance of the seizure of Panama and will repent, but I will not." He hired a single room in a modest hotel. He maintains that he is a prisoner of France and it is understood has addressed a letter of protest to the French president.
